Promotional Revenue Trends

Promotions Problems

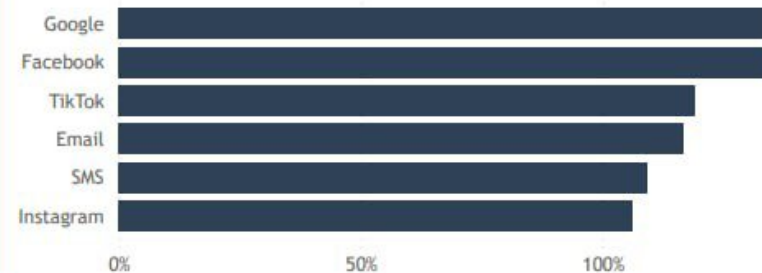

1. Promo revenue is only 30% of total revenue – the marketplace is under-investing in customer acquisition through promotions.

2. Despite high ROI (118%), promo orders are low (45K vs 100K non-promo) – promotions are not reaching enough customers.

Return Request Outcomes

Categories with Highest Returns

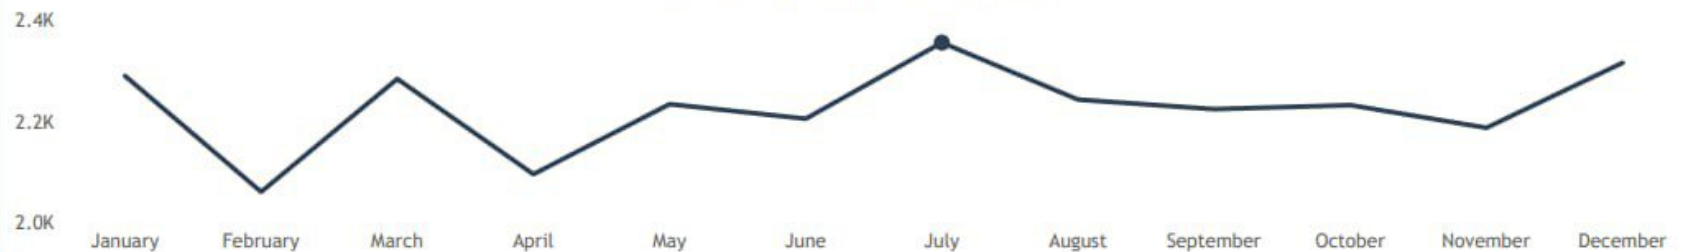

Problems Observed

1. Return rate is 18% — double the industry average (5-10%). This indicates serious product quality or listing accuracy issues.

2. Approval rate is only 55% — 45% of return requests are rejected, leading to customer dissatisfaction and potential chargebacks.

AI RECOMMENDATIONS

Personalized actions · Revenue opportunity · Priority tasks

REVENUE ACTIONS

- Launch mid-season promotions — revenue dips 18% below average in April, July, and September
- Bundle top products — 34% of Electronics buyers also purchase Accessories within 30 days
- Expand to younger demographics — 18-24 age band contributes <5% of revenue despite being 20% of customers

CUSTOMER ACTIONS

- Win-back campaign for 44,000 one-time buyers — last purchase > 90 days ago (64% of all customers)
- Create VIP loyalty tier — top 1.5% of customers (1K VIPs) generate 35% of revenue. Protect them.
- Convert "New" → "Repeat" — only 36% of customers make a second purchase. Launch 2nd purchase incentive (e.g., 15% off).

OPERATIONS ACTIONS

- Fix delivery delays in Alexandria — delivery time is 2.5x slower than Cairo (12 days vs 5 days)
- Optimize promotion spend — reallocate 60% of budget from low-ROI platforms (Instagram, SMS) to Google/Facebook
- Reduce discount erosion — average discount on promo orders is X%. Test lower discount tiers (10% vs 20%).

PROMOTIONS ACTIONS

- Increase promo budget — promo revenue is only 30% of total (industry avg is 40-50%)
- Seasonal alignment — promo revenue spikes only in March, August, November. Add campaigns in slow months.
- Platform reallocation — Google and Facebook show highest ROI but receive less budget than low-performing channels.
